Nice guy, very approachable and understanding. I found a few times that he was not prepared to answer a student's question regarding the homework, which is fine, some of them are really difficult.

He is too smart. I feel as if my brain will explode in the presence of his massive IQ... He explains problems very well but tends to go way too in-depth and goes off on tangents of how we will use them in future math classes, future math classes as in math theory kind of future, which is too far and most of the students in that class won't be taking that high of a math class.

Chris is a good TA. He knows his math and is always willing to help and explain topics that we don't understand or need more help on. His examples and methods of explanation are effective.

The only reason I find bad about Walker is that he does not explain why there were points taken off quizzes and homework.

He is a great TA very helpful and loves those helpful study sessions.

He is an excellent T.A. He teaches very well.

Nice guy and approachable. Knows the subject well and never really had any hard time solving problems. Explained the problems well.

Hi

Maybe could be a little more patient with students and perhaps become easier to talk to.
